

CREATING CHARACTER FROM MY HEART: Blessings and Therapeutic Outcomes

with Dr. Kixx Goldman

Windy Lynn Harris, in her book, Writing and Selling short Stories and Personal Essays, says “Write about a character worth watching. He can be gruff or sweet but never dull. Your main character must be worthy of the spotlight... Deepen your characterization by revealing more than his physical appearance. Sprinkle in some hints about who he is through his furniture choices, the way he talks to strangers, or the way he selects products.”
